Phase Three Comments

To whom this may concern

I do believe the fee for the Apprenticeship examination is more than fare and necessary. The fee helps pay for some of the necessary item's an Apprentice will need to have the best education and come out of the school most equipped for the workplace. The fee also helps fund Apprenticeship programs that provide better "on the job" training. I do believe that because the price as not changed in over 30 years and kept up with inflation it wouldn't be a bad idea to raise the fee. If it is not possible for someone to obtain the fee for the Apprenticeship examination it may show that they may not be serious about that particular training.
