

An employee who is required to file an annual Financial Disclosure Statement (FDS) must take the Comprehensive Ethics Training Program (CETC) training within two years of becoming subject to that requirement. After taking the CETC, the employee must take the 90-minute Ethics Seminar every three years thereafter. An employee who has already taken the CETC may choose to take the CETC again rather than the Seminar. However, an employee who has not yet taken the CETC cannot substitute the Seminar in its place.
